HISTORY & ROMANCE

After a great success in America, George Pullman introduced his exclusive railway carriages to England in 1872, initially on the Midland Railway. By 1879 these luxury vehicles had spread to the London to Brighton line and in 1929 the Southern Railway started its now legendary Golden Arrow train from London to Paris, via Dover.
This luxurious service was used by the rich, the famous and royalty alike and our buffet car, ORION is one of the carriages which compromised this most glamorous of trains.
